1. CONCEPTUAL BACKGROUND

WHEREAS: The Public Service is a labour-intensive employer and the quality of its services is directly dependent on the quality and performance of its employees. Viewed from this perspective, recruitment and selection collectively represents one of the most important Human Resource practices. Given the link between good quality recruitment and service delivery, its importance is paramount.

AND WHEREAS: In terms of the Public Service Co-ordinating Bargaining Council Resolution 3 of 1999, departments were given the mandate to develop policies and programmes which would enhance their managerial actions especially in respect of their human resource matters.

AND WHEREAS: The Head of Office of the Premier is empowered by section 7(3)(c)(iii) to set norms and standards for inter alia for conditions of service and other employment practices, in terms of section 3(1)(c) of the Public Service Act, 1994, as amended.

The effect of the aforementioned is that the Head of the Office of the Premier is empowered to develop generic transversal policies and guidelines which will suit the needs of the public service in the province.

Therefore this policy framework has been developed by taking into consideration legislative and policy requirements. It is also an endeavour to support the human resource plans of Departments in terms of its quest to attract the best competencies in the labour market. - (ii) Applications received from such identified potential candidates must be considered together with all other applications and all the normal recruitment processes will apply.
- (iii) This skills search based method of recruitment can typically be used to seek and identify candidates for positions where it is usually difficult to recruit suitably qualified candidates as well as candidates from historically disadvantaged groups and persons with a disability.
- (iv) In the event where the process, stipulated in paragraph (i), (ii) and (iii) above fails to recommend a suitable candidate for appointment, or in cases where a successful candidate is no longer available for appointment and no other suitable candidate is available, the following process can be embarked on:
 - (a) Departments may approach candidates who meet the requirements of the post to submit their CV's to be considered for the vacant position. An Executive Authority may procure candidates through recruitment agencies and/or professional associations.
 - (b) During this process departments must use the same criteria as originally advertised (e.g. educational qualifications, experience and remuneration on offer) and be assessed by the same selection committee.

- (c) Candidates interviewed prior to the headhunting process and who were found not suitable, cannot be considered for appointment together with possible headhunted candidates.

- (iv) Officials employed within the Offices of the Executive Authorities may be absorbed into a Department in a substantive post, on condition that they meet the minimum appointment requirements (qualifications, experience and other requirements specific to that post) of the position they are being appointed/absorbed subject to the Accounting Officer certifying that funds are available for both the current financial year and the MTEF period.

If the panel did not make a recommendation for a second choice candidate and the recommended candidate declines the offer no other candidate shall be appointed and the process of short listing and interviewing shall resume using applications from the pool of potential employees, if it complies with the stipulations as set out in Section A (iii) above. The Interview panel must, in as far as possible, recommend a second choice candidate.
